HALLBARS AWARDS SHORTLIST 2021

The Hallbars Awards shortlist is published August 25 every year. It includes six entries per category. They compete for the Best in the World award in their category, which will be announced October 21, 2021 at Alfred Nobel House in Karlskoga, Sweden. It is Alfred Nobel's birthday. The Best in the World are all welcome at the awards ceremony November 30, 2021 in Paris, France. It will be during World Cuisine Week, with food sustainability presentations and conferences at Les Cordeliers, see NEWS on www.hallbars.org.

Sustainability reports are books. They give important updates on sustainability development. All the reports on the shortlist are free, with extremely few exceptions. Over 80% are digital only. The rest are digital and paper. Nearly all are free, easy downloads on internet.

There were over 1300 entries from 91 countries competing this year. There are only 537 entries selected for the shortlist, from 58 countries. All those selected on the shortlist are already winners, and have the right to a certificate. They can use the digital Winner logo on their social media. Please contact us at awards@hallbars.org for the request document.

Hallbars has all the information needed for the next step, which is the Best in the World list on October 21. We will contact you again directly with the results. They will be also posted on the Awards pages of www.hallbars.org.
